

SCORCH SISTERS TORCH CELLAR ON SUNDAY – Longtime SCV resident Francesca Capasso and her group The Scorch Sisters will burn up the stage at The Cellar Wine Bar & Restaurant on Sunday from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m., and there's no cover charge.

The Sisters' lineup features Capasso (vocals, percussion), Alicia McCracken Morgan (keyboards, vocals) and Kimberly "KC" Allison (guitars), and they play red-hot blues.

They've paid some dues, too: The trio's resumes include sessions and live gigs with Neil Young, Rod Stewart, Delaney Bramlett, Billy Vera & The Beaters, Joe Houston, Zola Moon, Don & Dewey, Bobby Womack, Melissa Etheridge, Spencer Davis, Randy Jackson, the "Some Like It Hot Revue," Francesca & The Flames, and Carmine Appice, the legendary Vanilla Fudge, etc. drummer who backs up the Sisters on their song "Doctor."

The trio made their performing debut in April 2011 at the Blues for the Rising Sun benefit in Long Beach, and followed with a headlining set at the Real Blues Festival of Orange County 2 in May.

After the torrid trio torches The Cellar in Centre Pointe, their next gig is on Aug. 28, when play a benefit for the City of Hope in Duarte at Joe's American Grill in Burbank. Just over the hill in the SFV, the trio holds forth weekly at Harper's in conjunction with my favorite on-air blues maven, Ann the Raven from KCSN-FM 88.5.

A new Scorch Sisters CD is in the works and will be released on Allison's Starliner Music label in the near future, so we're bound to get a preview on Sunday.
